FAKE BLAKELOCKS NOW SHIPPED WEST

Art Dealers Find Market for Bogus Landscapes Among Reservation Indians.

INQUIRY PROCEEDS HERE

H. M. Kitchell, Painter of Lynbrook, Denies Having Aided Imitators.

Pinning their operations in the East to the impelled commercial art fakers engaged in marketing fraudulent Blacklock landscapes have shifted their activities to the West.

Mrs. Van Rensselaer Adams declared yesterday that from information which she has just received paintings produced in the East have been shipped to certain art dealers in the West for distribution in the Indian reservations in Oklahoma and in the States of the West.

The Indians on the Western reservation were said to be plentifully supplied with money and ready buyers of painting showing Indian life. Quantities of paintings of that kind produced in the East to sell for $50, $75 and $100 have been manufactured in the East and shipped to various points West, where the name of Ralph A. Blacklock was painted in John T. Dooling, Assistant District Attorney, examined H. M. Kitchell, a painter with a studio at Lynbrook, L. I., yesterday. Mr. Kitchell asserted that he had known Mr. Blacklock some thirty-five years ago and that he had worked with him in a studio in Newark, N. J.

He admitted that he had heard it reported that he had painted some of the spurious Blacklocks, but he vigorously denied the report. He told Mr. Dooling that he had turned out a couple of hundred pictures during the last two years which he had disposed of through J. W. Young of 66 East Jackson Boulevard.

He also admitted that a painting now in the possession of the District Attorney, and pronounced by Mr. Blacklock to be spurious, was one which he had recently "touched up." The landscape was one recently shipped from a dealer on the West Side.

Mr. Kitchell said his son, T. B. Kitchell, a dealer in pictures, had brought it to him, and that the name "Blacklock" was on it when he got it. The son in question said he had been examined by Mr. Dooling yesterday. When representatives of the District Attorney's office visited the studio at Lynbrook, they found fifteen landscapes in process of making.

WAR AT CRISIS, SAYS AUSTRALIA PREMIER

William Morris Hughes Declares Civilization's Fate
Hangs by a Hair.

FEARS FOR HIS COUNTRY

Wishes America to Insure
Freedom of Southern Pacific
From Germans.

The Premier of Australia, the Right Hon. William Morris Hughes, addressing the members of the Pilgrim League Society at a dinner in the Union League Club last night, made known the purpose of his visit to America, and revealed to a further extent the German plan of world conquest. He said that the crisis in the war has now come and that sacrifice must be made freely else the Teuton will sweep all before him.

"The fate of civilization hangs by a hair," he said.

The Premier's special appeal was for the support of the United States Government in promulgating an Australian Monroe Doctrine. Germany will never be a friend of America, he said, until Australia this war is a matter of life and death, and if Germany wins in France her nationality is doomed. The southern Pacific by right of geographical position belongs to Australia, he declared, and for the sake of common interest the United States must stand with Australia in keeping the sea free from Germany.

The Premier spoke frankly of the importance of maintaining the possession of this country in amity with those of Australia, mentioning New Guinea as an island especially sought by Germany. He said that Germany had been in the East for some time, and that the evidence now exists that before the war Germany had completely parcelled out Australia among the Junkers in the division of spoils of the world.

"Americans," he said, "the world looks to you now at this supreme crisis, for your help is not only imperative, but it is a matter of life and death. Australia has not an hour to lose. Australia has a heritage on her mainland for 100,000,000 people. We do not desire to extend our territory, but we do desire to see our people secure. We do not want to add new lands to those which we already have, but we are determined that what we have we will hold."

"As we cannot hold Australia if we lose the island (New Guinea, New Zealand, the Fiji, Solomon and Loyalty Islands) are in the hands of the enemy, and we cannot, unless we are to invite for ourselves the fate that has overtaken Russia, to a policy of a Monroe Doctrine in the Pacific."

can arrive in force—these are their objectives.

"Across the Atlantic Hindenburg and Ludendorff are sending their armies, watching the distant horizon for the swift speeding armies that are transporting those mighty legions of America, coming ashore utterly victorious, Germany's ally, the victor, and the armies of the empire and of France, fighting heroically, contesting every foot of ground, dying the soil of France and Flanders with their heart's blood, they too gaze with anxious eyes for these same legions.

"To America, then, friend and foe alike are looking, the one for the other with dread. Now is Armageddon in very truth being waged. But the Allies are sorely pressed, and daily the need for reinforcements grows more imperative, more urgent.

"Britain is throwing the last ounce of effort into the struggle, coming out the last man, filling up the huge gaps torn in her ranks. She and her brood beyond the seas are doing and will do all that is possible. But from America alone can come those reinforcements that will turn the tide of battle. And they must come soon."

The losses sustained by Australia in the war were dramatically presented. The prime minister said in a death list of 47,000 and a total casualty list of 150,000, 3,000 have been taken prisoners.

BRITISH SURGEONS PRAISE AMERICANS

Our Doctors and Nurses Show
Gallantry and Heroism
at Front.

MISSION COMES TO U. S.

Will Hear Details of Work
at Front.

A mission from the British Medical Society which arrived at an Atlantic port yesterday and will attend the American Medical Congress in Chicago June 10, said fine things about the American surgeons, doctors and nurses serving at the battle fronts. Among the delegates were Sir James Mackenzie, Sir Arbutnot Lane and Col. Herbert A. Bruce, consulting surgeon of the British forces in France. Sir James Mackenzie said it would be the privilege of the mission to tell the Chicago congress the details of the work of the medical men at the front and the part they were taking in making an efficient army.

Col. Bruce finished a tour of the advance hospitals in France early in May and had a long talk with Gen. Sir Arthur Higgitt, Director-General of the British Medical Service, who said he was anxious to give recognition to the gallantry and heroism of the American surgeons, doctors and nurses who were serving at the front.

Col. Bruce said he had seen the work of the American surgeons in towns and villages and at the front in France, and that they were a splendid lot, filled with the determination to win.

At the Queen's Hospital at Sidcup, Sir Arbutnot Lane said, "to which all the wounded suffering from facial injuries have been brought, the work of the medical men is a masterpiece of the greatest skill."

James Sullivan Clarkson, who was of the Republican party organization,

died yesterday at the home of his son,
H. R. Clarkson, in Newark, N. J.

Mr. Clarkson, widely known throughout the country as Gen. Clarkson by reason of his having been First Assistant Postmaster-General during the Harrison administration, was 76 years of age.

His home was at the "Hollow Farm," Tarrytown, N. Y. For many years he was a member of the Republican National Committee from Iowa, and from 1892 to 1910 he occupied the position of Surveyor of the Port of New York.

He was born in Brookville, Ind., May 17, 1842. Before the civil war and during the first year and a half of the war, he was one of the spirits who kept up a twenty-eight mile section of the "underground railroad," and aided more than 500 runaway slaves to escape from their masters. During the period of John Brown's work, and up to the time of the war, Mr. Clarkson frequently met John Brown and actively cooperated with him.

Mr. Clarkson was a close personal friend of the late President James G. Blaine and was one of the most intimate friends of the late President Benjamin Harrison. He was a man of engaging personality and of strong personal convictions. He was a member of the Republican party and was a member of the National Republican Club in New York City.
